This is a historical map of the Alpine region, likely from the 17th or 18th century. The map shows the Lake of Geneva, Lake Constance, and the Rhine River. The Swiss Confederation is depicted as a collection of cantons, with Zurich at its center. The map also includes parts of France, Italy, and Austria. Numerous towns and geographical features are labeled in both Latin and French. A scale bar at the bottom right indicates distances in statute miles, ranging from 10 to 40 miles.
